City to purchase 'gateway' property for $225,000

Officers receive Life Saving medals

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Madison City Council adopted a resolution Tuesday night allowing Mayor Bob Courtney to purchase two tracts of land on the west side of Harrison Street that will be developed into a new gateway to Madison and Indiana coming off the US 421 bridge from Kentucky.

Courtney first proposed the purchase last year when he sought approval to move forward with negotiations to buy the two properties directly north and west of the bridge. The process included appraisals and negotiations with the parties eventually agreeing to a $225,000 purchase price that was $22,000 below the $247,000 average of two appraisals.

While proposing the project, the mayor noted that when properties of such significance and opportunity become available, the city needs to take advantage and find a way to buy them.

He said after Tuesday's meeting that by owning the property, the city will be able to control what locates at its doorstep to the bridge and Kentucky and use the area for green space and a small park and welcome center as well as parking near the new pedestrian access point to the bridge from Harrison Street. It would also end a revolving door of uses for the two tracts from used car lots to tattoo parlors, fireworks stands and flea markets among others.

COVID-19 numbers improve; state death toll tops 9K, U.S. 400K

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

As the number of new COVID-19 cases in Indiana showed improvement for the first time in days, the Jefferson County Health Department announced Tuesday that vaccination appointments are now being taken for the week of Feb. 1 for all residents over the age of 70 as well as first responders and health care employees.

Appointments must be scheduled by visiting www.ourshot.in.gov or calling 2-1-1.

The announcement comes as the state of Indiana reported lower seven-day positivity rates throughout the state but also 126 new COVID-related deaths on Monday to push the statewide pandemic death toll over 9,000 with 9,092. Another 62 Hoosiers died on Tuesday to up the death toll to 9,154 since the virus was first reported in March 2020.

Public Works approves new riverfront event for July 31

First hilltop PACE application OK'd

BY BOB DEMAREE

Madison's Board of Public Works and Safety on Tuesday gave its approval for a new event on Madison's riverfront — Madison Cars and Coffee — slated for Saturday, July 31, 2021.

Organizer Jim Wilkins, of Bedford, Kentucky, is hopeful that by summer, local pandemic conditions will be suitable for the outdoor event, which will run from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. on Vaughn Drive.

"People come park their cars and show them, then get coffee. It's as simple as that," said Wilkins. "There are no awards and no charges. It's open to everybody."

Wilkins said similar events have been popular in Louisville and he's excited to take advantage of Madison's riverfront.

"You folks were smart. You knew how to develop your riverfront," said Wilkins. "I love Madison. I live in Kentucky, but Madison is why I moved here 13 years ago."

After canceling most events last summer due to health concerns, the board gave its approval contingent on the Governor's COVID-19 restrictions.

MPD issues phone scam warning

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

Madison Police are warning residents to be aware of a scam being perpetrated on local citizens regarding using the Madison Police Department's name.

"It has been reported that citizens are receiving calls advising them they have an active warrant," MPH John Wallace said. "The caller has reportedly been using names of MPD officers and stating they need to pay a sum of money or they will be arrested. This is certainly not the case, arrest warrants are not handled in this manner. A bogus phone number may even show up on your caller ID, indicating it's from an MPD officer. Please hang up on these individuals and report such activity to the MPD's detective division."

Wallace said residents nowadays should view every call and email with a note of suspicion because there are numerous people trying to take advantage of your trust.

"Unfortunately you must always assume you are being scammed when receiving such calls. Never give out your personal information," Wallace said. "Legitimate companies and organizations will not ask for such information."

MICHIGAN MAN FACING DRUG CHARGES

A Michigan man was arrested Monday for dealing heroin after a traffic stop on Interstate 65 just north of Seymour. While speaking to the driver, trooper Randel Miller became suspicious about criminal activity and searched the vehicle, finding approximately 90 grams of heroin and marijuana. Jamaal Hunt, 38, of Jackson, Michigan, was arrested for dealing a narcotic drug over 28 grams, a Level 2 felony, possession of a narcotic drug over 28 grams, Level 3 felony, and possession of marijuana, Class C misdemeanor. The investigation determined that the heroin was being transported from Michigan to Florida with an estimated street value of just under $10,000.

"I totally understand," said Wilkins, who said he set that date with hopes that conditions will be safer for public gathering by that time.

"My hope is that if it goes well that in 2022 that it's something we'll do monthly" during the warmer months, said Wilkins, who said the events could be scheduled to not conflict with other Madison events while also helping to bring people to the community.

The event will be sponsored by two organizations — Central Indiana Camaro Club and Kentuckiana Camaro and Firebird club. Wilkins' original request was for closing the parking area between Central Street and Poplar Street, but the board approved also closing Vaughn Drive between West and Poplar streets.

"For being a first time, I don't know how many we'll have. It could be 15, or 50, or maybe 100," said Wilkins.

In other business, the BPWS:

• Approved a speed bump on Green Road near the Rucker Sports Complex. "That's a high access area in the summer months," said Madison Police Chief John Wallace. He said residents in the area have been concerned about speeding traffic. Madison Mayor Bob Courtney said he thinks speed bumps are more successful in slowing traffic than signs and signals. He said drivers might roll through a stop sign without effectively slowing speed but a physical barrier is more effective.

• Heard a report by Wallace on MPD's enforcement statistics for 2020 showing a 12% increase in traffic stops and a 17.5% increase in narcotics-related arrests which he said related to a 16% decline in property-related calls.

"As drug arrests go up, property crimes goes down," said Wallace, who credited his officers for the improved enforcement. "It's not me. It's our officers. They are just doing a fantastic job and we will continue to grow on that."

Courtney also praised the work of officers and the leadership of Wallace, noting "one way to have a safe community is to establish metrics that provide standards."

• Approved an update to MPD's standard operating procedures with regard to deployment of duty weapons and utilization of the light on weapons. The original SOP stated that officers would use the light every time they deployed their weapon. The new SOP gives officers discretion on when to utilize the light.

• Approved renewal of the city's Property and Casualty Insurance that provides multiple liability coverages through five different companies beginning Jan. 24. The policy is "one of the broadest in the market," said Andy Brown of Gregory and Appel Insurance representing the Intact Government Risk Program and Chubb Property Coverage.

• Approved 16 applications for the city's Preservation and Community Enhancement Grant (PACE) program including the first ever for a structure on the Madison hilltop at 2042 Wilson Avenue. Courtney said the hilltop application was "fantastic" because restoration has long been needed at the property. All of the other applications were located downtown with some involving foundational work.

City Planner Nicole Schell said the requests total about $152,000.

Courtney also expressed some concern about whether work funded by the grants includes approving the general appearance of the structures, which he said beautifies neighborhoods and helps increase property values.

"When they are receiving the investment from the city, we want to make sure they look like they have been renovated," Courtney said,

• Approved a $32,000 contract for grant administration and Stellar program services that includes renovation work on the Crystal Beach poll complex.

PROPERTY

The next step will be to plan what is to be located on the property and involve designers to decide how the city's new entrance point will look moving forward. He said he envisions a welcome center, bathrooms, parking and bike racks to serve local residents and tourists alike and that grants will be pursued to assist with costs.

"We're the entrance to the state of Indiana and we should look like it," Courtney said.

In other business, Madison Police Chief John Wallace recognized two of his patrolmen for their life-saving intervention in a pair of unrelated drug overdoses recently. As first responders, Patrolmen Chad Wehner and Adam Guzman both immediately rendered CPD to unresponsive drug overdose victims until EMTs could arrive and both men survived. Wallace said the quick life-saving action of the officers saved two lives and that he was recognizing both officers as recipients of MPD's Life Saving Medal of Honor. The pins were awarded in a ceremony Tuesday night.

In other MPD business, Detective Shawn Scudder presented a report on the department's efforts in combating human trafficking as part of national Human Trafficking Awareness Month. Scudder said the city's efforts to investigate and make arrests in last year's child solicitation sting, Operation Predator Net, has opened doors to additional support and training as well as access to the latest forensics techniques and crime networking.

"This is the result you get when you invest in public safety with the right leadership and the right staff," Courtney said.

In other business, the council:

• Heard the second reading of an ordinance to establish a new three-way traffic stop at the intersection of Ross and Highland streets.

• Heard a report by Courtney that the city's COVID-19 infection rate has remained in the highest threat level for a third consecutive week and positivity rates are still climbing as well as the number of serious illnesses and deaths. He urged residents to remain vigilant in mask wearing, social distancing and hand washing and sanitizing and to be tested and take the COVID vaccine as soon as possible.

"It looks like we're going to be in this environment for quite a while," he said. "Be mindful that it is still out there ... the vaccination does give us some hope, but it will take a long time to phase that in."

Courtney said the only way for the community or individuals to know the true threat level is to be tested and know who has the virus and is at risk to being ill and who has the potential to spread the virus.

"I'm an advocate for regular testing," he said. "I get tested weekly."

• Received notice that Courtney will hold his State of the City Address in the next 30 to 45 days to talk about the successes of 2020 and his administration's directions for 2021.

NUMBERS

Jefferson County reported 20 new cases through Tuesday, 2,558 positive cases overall and 38 deaths. A total of 13,473 local residents have been tested for the virus and about 1,400 local residents have had their first of two vaccinations while several others have had both shots.

The positivity rate in Indiana has been 11.2 per 100,000 while Jefferson County's is 10.8 per 100,000, which is slightly better than the week before and follows a trend seen in all 92 of Indiana's counties.

Gov. Eric Holcomb touted Indiana as rebounding from the COVID-19 pandemic and called during the annual State of the State speech Tuesday night for the Legislature to support a new regional development program to spark that recovery.

Holcomb focused much of his nearly half-hour speech on state initiatives responding the COVID-19 pandemic. He paused for about 10 seconds marking a moment of silence for the more than 9,000 Indiana residents who've died from the illness over the past 10 months, saying "It's impossible to calculate the far-reaching ripple effect of the personal and community loss of lives and livelihoods."

Holcomb pre-recorded the speech earlier Tuesday before it was broadcast on television and online, rather than before the typical joint session of the General Assembly. He chose the virtual option in light of coronavirus precautions and security concerns over possible protests across the country related to President-elect Joe Biden's inauguration on Wednesday.

The Centers from Disease Control and Prevention is reporting 24,135,690 total cases in the US and 400,406 deaths.

OBITUARIES

Spencer Schnaitter

Spencer J. Schnaitter, 88, died Friday Jan. 15, 2021, at the Daniel Drake Center for Post-Acute Care in Cincinnati, from complications due to COVID-19.

He was born in Shelbyville, Indiana, on Jan. 21, 1932, to Paul R. Schnaitter and Edith Spencer Schnaitter. His father was a Judge of the 5th Judicial Circuit for Jefferson and Switzerland counties and his mother was an English teacher at Hanover High School and a primary teacher at Eggleston Elementary. He grew up in Madison and graduated from Madison High School, Yale University and the Indiana University School of Law in Bloomington. He was an exceptional athlete as well as a career public servant for Madison, southeastern Indiana and the state. He was an Indiana All-Star in basketball and the starting center of Madison's 1950 state championship team and 1949 state runner-up. He was inducted into the Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame in 1995. Also an accomplished high school pitcher, he threw three no-hitters for the Cubs his senior year and still holds that school record. He turned down offers to play professional baseball and was a three-year starter at Yale in both baseball and basketball. In basketball he was the team MVP as a junior, team captain and leading scorer as a senior, and a two-time all-Ivy League team member. He was also a member of Phi Gamma Delta and the Skull and Bones Society.

After graduation from Yale, he married Laura Ann Mills on July 25, 1954, and they lived in Fort Sill, Oklahoma and Fort Carson, Colorado, while he served as an active-duty artillery officer for the US Army. The family relocated to Bloomington so he could finish law school in June of 1959 before moving back to Madison where he practiced law for more than 60 years.

A Democrat, he was elected to five, two-year terms to the Indiana House of Representatives, from 1962-1963 representing Jefferson and Scott counties, and 1973-1980 representing a five-county district including all of Jefferson, parts of Scott, Clark, Switzerland and Jennings counties. From 1973-1980 he principally served on the House Ways and Means Committee and as Chairman while Democrats held the majority in the 1975-1976 session. As a lawmaker he focused on securing funding for local education, support for the Madison State Hospital, improvements at Clifty Falls State Park, the Lanier Home and local highways. He supported legislation for the creation of Ivy Tech Community College throughout Indiana — particularly in southeastern Indiana with its branch in Madison — and steered the legislation that formed the Madison Port Authority, thereby saving the short line rail line between Madison and North Vernon. He then served as Senate Parliamentarian from 1991-1999 under Lt. Govs. Frank O'Bannon and Joe Kernan and as Legislative Liaison for the Indiana Department of Natural Resources from 1999-2001. In 2001 he received the Sagamore of the Wabash from Gov. Frank O'Bannon.

Locally, he served as Madison City Attorney from 1960-1966 and 1985-1987 and as Jefferson County Attorney three different times for Democratic County Commissioners. He provided legal representation for the Stucker Fork Water Conservancy District from 1966-2020, the Madison Port Authority from 1978 to present and the Telegraph Hill Rykers Ridge Regional Sewer District from 1993 to present. His knowledge of local and state history often made him a resource for historical details.

He was a member of Trinity United Methodist Church — singing in the choir for many years — and an active member of the Elks Club. He was a member of the Jefferson County Bar Association, the Indiana State Bar Association and served on the Jefferson County Cemetery Board. He enjoyed his lifelong association with the Jefferson County Democratic Party and remained active in local politics. He loved sports, and was a passionate supporter of the Indiana Hoosiers and the Cincinnati Reds.

Survivors include five children, Dwight Schnaitter and Jason Schnaitter, both of Salt Lake City, Utah, Laura Suzanne Schnaitter of Bloomington, Spencer M. Schnaitter of Crested Butte, Colorado and Edie Britton of San Antonio, Texas; and seven grandchildren, two step-grandchildren, two great grandchildren, a niece, nephew, and numerous grand nieces and grand nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents; his wife; and a sister, Carolyn Schnaitter Willis.

Madison dominates final three quarters to beat Scottsburg

BY JORDAN BEAR

Madison coach Sonja Bowyer had to calm her team after a subpar first quarter and the Cubs responded in a big way by controlling the remaining three quarters en route to a 54-46 win over Scottsburg on Tuesday at home.

Madison came out ice cold at the beginning of the game, getting several looks at the rim and jump shots that just weren't falling. Making matters worse, the Warriorettes came out on fire and jumped out to an early 16-9 lead at the end of the first period.

Madison bounced back in the second period. Scottsburg was still holding a 20-13 advantage midway through the quarter when senior Zoe Zellers picked up her second foul and went to the bench for the remainder of the half.

The Cubs took advantage to close out the half on a 13-0 run, capped by a Cadence Traylor shot at the buzzer, to take a 26-20 lead.

The second half was really never in doubt with Madison leading by as much as 13 at one point and constantly putting pressure on the Warriorettes to control play en route to a third consecutive victory over Scottsburg.

Bowyer said she told her team to just play their game.

"I told them just be us. The last couple of games our defense hasn't been as stellar as it has been. Our defense is what drives our offense, and what gets us going," Bowyer said. "That second quarter I just told them bust this game open, it's time to be us again."

A big key for Madison was getting Zellers in foul trouble, and Bowyer said that's when the Cubs' own star, Jade Nutley, was able to take over.

"They tried so many combinations on Jade (Nutley) and I told our players get her the ball every single time because no one can guard her," Bowyer said. "They're either fronting her or playing behind and we took advantage of the mismatch."

Nutley finished the game with a double-double of 24 points and 10 rebounds, going 13-for-14 from the free-throw line. As a team, the Cubs were spectacular from the line overall, making 18-of-20.

Traylor also came up big by chipping in eight points while not missing a shot from the field.

"Sometimes players have to step up when other players are having an off game and Cadence did that," Bowyer said. "I told her to look for her shot and she was 100% from the field and I'm just really proud of how she played."

Cameran Cahall and Lundun Perry also scored eight points each for Madison while Taylor Lynch had four points and six assists and Daesja Jay scored two.

Hannah Stutsman led Scottsburg with 17 points while Allison McGlothlin scored 14.

The Cubs, now 8-10 on the season, return to action today when they'll host South Dearborn.

Madison then heads to North Harrison on Tuesday.

Madison's Brett Cahall has signed a national letter of intent to run cross country and track & field at Bethel University.

Cahall runs her way to Bethel

BY JORDAN BEAR

Madison runner Brett Cahall has had as good a high school career as anyone could want. She ran at semistate all four years in cross country, advanced to regionals multiple times in track, and capped her senior season with a team sectional championship in cross country this past fall.

Now Cahall can begin using her skills at the next level after signing to run both cross country and track at Bethel University in the Fall of 2021. Cahall made it official when she signed last Friday afternoon surrounded by family, coaches, and teammates.

"I really wanted a small school. I wanted something that was family-oriented and made me feel like I was at home," Cahall said.

Cahall said while Bethel wasn't even her first choice for a school, when she visited that all changed.

"I had looked at and visited one other school and I really didn't want to go look at any others. However, when I visited Bethel, I just fell in love with it, and I knew immediately that this was the place I wanted to be," Cahall said. "There's texting and there's FaceTime so even though I'll be four hours away, I'll still be able to always be in close contact with my family."

Cahall will also be a part of the track and field program at Bethel, which she has excelled in the distance events and is looking forward to her senior season after losing last season to the coronavirus pandemic.

"I want to get into the 5:30's in the mile run, and I want the opportunity to do that this year. If I can't make it here, then I want to make that a goal in college," Cahall said.

Bethel head coach Joe Stephens said when Cahall visited the school, the rest of the team raved about her and how much they wanted her there.

"I love her commitment to running. When she came and visited the school, she got to meet some of the other girls, and they all were excited and were telling me how much that the wanted her to come here and she just had a great vibe with everyone," Stephens said. "She's talented, works hard, and has the type of attitude that any coach would want to have as part of their program."

He also added that Cahall has both qualities he wants in an athlete.

"I look for two things in an athlete, coachability and competitiveness. Brett has both and that's the type of athlete I want on my team, because she makes the entire team that much better," Stephens said.

Madison girls cross country coach Josh Wilbur said the signing was an emotional moment for him.

"It's very emotional for me. I've coached Brett for many years now in both cross country and track and just to see how far she's come and see her still have the same drive every day, which has led to this, is just such a special moment for me as a coach," Wilbur said. "She's been a leader for this team and she's run at such a high and consistent level, and has brought this program great success. I know that she is going to be great at the next level."

Madison girls track & field coach Patrick Maschino will be entering his first full season as head coach after last Southwestern's Olivia Bruce (12) has signed a national letter of intent to play soccer and softball at Ancilla College.

Rebels' Bruce to play soccer, softball at Ancilla

BY JORDAN BEAR

Southwestern senior Olivia Bruce wanted a college that felt like home and she found the perfect spot at Ancilla College. Bruce signed her Letter of Intent on Friday afternoon to continue her athletic career in both soccer and softball beginning in the Fall of 2021.

Bruce has been a four-year starter for coach Nancy Totten and the Lady Rebels soccer team and has made dramatic improvement over her four years. Totten was beyond thrilled to see her player continue at the next level.

"I'm so thrilled for her. She's improved so much in her time playing," Totten said. "She's become a leader on the team, her skill has improved, and most importantly she loves it, and now she can continue doing what she loves in college."

Bruce said Ancilla felt like home, which is why she chose to be a Charger.

"I loved how small the school is. It felt like it had a hometown vibe," Bruce said. "Of course I also love the sports programs and I knew I could be a part of a special group of girls."

Bruce's senior year of soccer was overshadowed by the coronavirus pandemic, but the Lady Rebels were still able to have a complete season, which was capped by playing Providence in the sectional. Bruce said the senior year gave her perspective on how she will have to juggle many different responsibilities.

"I learned how I'm going to have to juggle everything, with school, with sports, plus all the restrictions from COVID. I learned how to balance everything and I know that in college, I'm going to have to juggle many different things again," Bruce said.

Ancilla soccer coach Kalen Saddler said Bruce caught his eye when he saw her play in the North/South All-Star game.

"We didn't get to go out and recruit very much this year, but when I saw Olivia play in the North/South game, I just knew she was a player I wanted for our program," Saddler said.

Saddler said Bruce will great for his

Understaffed Pacers unable to hang with 1A No. 2 JCD in 48-25 defeat

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Switzerland County's defense played well enough to win, but without a full compliment of players, the Pacers simply couldn't muster the offense needed in a 48-25 loss to Class 1A No. 2 Jac-Cen-Del at home in girls basketball on Tuesday evening.

Leading scorer Jessie Duvall tweaked her knee in the Pacers' win over New Washington on Saturday and, after a gallant effort trying to go in warm-ups on Tuesday, she ended up sitting for the crucial Ohio River Valley Conference matchup with the Eagles.

Losing Duvall's 15 points per game hurt, but it was the junior's overall presence on offense and defense that was missed most.

"Overall, I'm really proud of these girls for the way they battled against a really good basketball team," Switzerland coach Mark Boggs said. "Jessie's a playmaker. She does everything: she sees the floor well, she hits shots, she defends at a high level. You're not just missing 15 points per game. But I credit everybody that played in this game tonight. They stepped up tremendously and tried to give it a go, but when you're missing something, it's hard to beat a team like Jac-Cen-Del."

Switzerland County (14-4, 2-1 ORVC) did everything it could to stay with the Eagles.

The Pacers harassed the JCD shooters and kept senior post Paige Ledford at bay while holding the Eagles to just 21 points over the first 16 minutes.

But the Pacers managed just 12 points of their own and couldn't contain Jac-Cen-Del at the start of the second half as the Eagles opened the third quarter on an 11-2 run to blow open the game and never look back.

Switzerland trailed by only nine at halftime and even without Duvall, Boggs liked what he saw from his team in the first half.

"With everything going on we trailed by only nine at the half and missed five or six layups," Boggs said. "The girls did everything we asked them to do. They were going downhill and attacking the basket. In the second half, we got a little more east and west than north and south and it cost us."

Jac-Cen-Del (17-3, 3-0 ORVC) led 36-20 after the third quarter and blew open the game in the fourth with another big run, this one 12-2, to waltz to the win.

Switzerland County was held without a 3-pointer in the loss and managedt most of its points in the paint with Nora Hankins scoring seven points and Hannah Hayes adding six.

Maddie Duvall, Jessie's twin sister and second-leading scorer on the team, was limited to just four points on back-to-back buckets early in the second quarter.

Annabelle Williams scored 15 points and Jalee Rider had 12 to lead Jac-Cen-Del.

Ledford and Kadee Kuhn scored nine points each.

Switzerland hosts Shawe today in a varsity-only contest at 6 p.m. The Pacers then travel to South Decatur on Saturday.

program due to her mentality for teamwork and not just focusing on herself.

"We always say 'We over me.' We are here for each other, not ourselves. From watching Olivia, I know that she's going to buy into what Ancilla is about," Saddler said.

Olivia will also be a part of the softball program at Ancilla. Bruce has played softball her entire career, but lost her junior season after spring sports were canceled by the coronavirus. Southwestern softball coach Devin Brierly, who could not attend the signing, will have her first official season as head coach of the Lady Rebels in the spring.

Bruce said she loves softball as much as soccer and she's looking forward to her senior year and playing in college.

"I'm just so excited to be back out on the diamond. It hurt so much not playing last year, but I'm so happy that I will get to have senior year for Southwestern, and that I also get to keep playing after I'm done here," Bruce said.

Ancilla softball coach Tom Anders said it's been challenging to recruit but said when he came across Bruce, her talent and character were the two biggest reasons he wanted her on his team.

"I came across her and looked at some of her stats and I was very impressed. Then, I got to know her and her character and her love of teamwork really was just exemplary," Anders said. "We're trying to build a program here, and I want players who are going to lift the team up and who will be there for one another. I firmly believe Olivia will be that type of player."

Bruce plans to major in nursing and wants to become a registered nurse.

season was canceled after one meet because of the coronavirus.

He said he's thrilled to be able to coach Cahall her senior year.

"Every time she steps onto the track she is ready to go and she's not going to give you anything less than 100%. Whether she's a top finisher or not she's going to leave it all out there," Maschino said. "This is my first full season as head coach and I'm excited that she's on my team. I think we can have a very exciting season, and she's going to be one of the athletes who will make it that much more exciting and fun."

Cahall hopes to lead Madison to its first sectional title in more than a decade this spring and then majoring in kinesiology at Bethel.

Kids have been on a roll and bounced out and come back with the level of energy and drive we love to see. They give it their all every day and we just can't ask for more."

Madison's boys picked up 10 wins on the day with the always reliable trio of Liam Roney, Justin Banks and Carter Schutte winning two individual events each and swimming in two winning relays.

Video conferencing tips

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: Throughout the pandemic, I've noted some things that make for a successful Zoom or FaceTime call. Perhaps these suggestions will be of use to your readers.

1. Look at yourself on your screen. What you see is what others will see.

2. Do not sit with a window or other bright light behind you. You will be a dark silhouette.

3. Have the light or window facing you from higher, beyond the laptop, or up to 45 degrees off to the side.

4. Incandescent lights are warmer and make you look more alive. Natural window light alone, particularly if snow is on the ground, can make you look ghostly pale blue.

5. Place your laptop on a table to keep it from moving around to dizzy others. TV tray tables work.

6. Sit close enough so your head nearly fills the screen and you are recognizable.

7. Adjust the screen/camera angle to include your full face, preferably from nearly the same level to eliminate facial distortions and dominant ceilings. Sitting on extra cushions can sometimes help.

8. If there are two of you making the call together from one device, sit close enough so both faces show equally.

9. Check your background for distracting clutter. — Harvey V.

Dear Harvey: Video conferencing has been so important during this past year, and I hope people will continue to make use of the technology even after the pandemic ends. Thanks for the tips on Zooming like a pro.

Dear Annie: We have two grown sons, whom I will call "Tim" and "Tom." One is our biological son and the other is adopted. They are a few years apart and live just a few miles apart. When they were growing up, they were somewhat close, but they have been estranged for a number of years. There was never really a falling out or major disagreement between them or anything like that. Tim has expressed that he's worried that Tom will take advantage of him in looking for job connections. Tom says he doesn't want to make the first move because he says he always has to make the first move in communicating. So nothing happens. They have never communicated the reasons to each other. It was very awkward on Christmas when we did a FaceTime call together.

I'm very hurt because of this. My one desire is for them to be close. This bothers me a lot. Do I just let things go on as they are, or should I make some effort to get them together? — Mom with a Last Wish

Dear Last Wish: I feel for you. Every parent wishes for their children to have special lifelong bonds with their siblings. But your sons are adult men with their own lives and beliefs. You can't force them to be closer. And trying to do so will only drive them further from you. Continue to create spaces to gather as a family, even if it's just virtual for now, and even if it's awkward. Hopefully, in time, that ice will thaw a bit. In the meantime, focus on your relationships with each of them individually.

Daughter driving drives mom crazy

Dear Annie: My daughter, "Emily," has been dating "Ben" for almost two years. Ben is a great guy, aside from one issue that's been bugging me: He refuses to drive anywhere and instead has my daughter drive him. He says it's because a few years ago he was in a car accident and has been scared to drive since. (He was not hurt in the accident.) He has Emily drive him to and from work every day. Emily never complains about it, but it drives me insane because Emily and her kids were also in a car accident a few years back and suffer PTSD from that accident. Ben is aware of this, but doesn't seem to get it. He thinks it's no big deal for Emily to get over her fear while avoiding getting over his fear. I want to say something to him so badly, but I haven't. And every time I say something to my daughter, she gets upset with me. How can I approach the situation without making it worse? — Miffed Mom

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Miffed: Your intentions are good, and your irritation is understandable. But Emily is the one behind the wheel, figuratively and literally. When she's tired of driving him, she can stop. Meanwhile, you can earn interest by keeping your two cents in the bank: If you avoid offering advice when your daughter hasn't asked, she'll be more likely to ask you for advice.

Dear Annie: I agree with "What Did You Say" that mood music in TV shows often makes it hard to hear the dialogue. I would add that background noises meant to create "realism" also frequently drown out what the actors are saying. Isn't the dialogue important enough to make it audible? Because the problem is in the show itself, it doesn't help much to turn up the volume. If I turn it up enough to make out the dialogue, then the music and ambient noise are so loud that it is annoying.

My wife and I always watch shows with the closed captions on. We find that we even enjoy movies more at home than at the movie theater because we can have the captions on at home. It also helps a lot with BBC shows where the accents and British slang can make it hard to catch what is said. But it would be even better if the shows' directors and editors highlighted the dialogue and turned down the sound effects. — Not Ready for the Ear Horn in Lafayette, Indiana

Dear Not Ready for the Ear Horn: You're not alone. A 2017 survey found that 98% of people use closed captioning at least some of the time. While closed captions can certainly be helpful, some have pointed out that they're far from perfect and, during some live broadcasts, the captions lag behind the visuals. The following letter writer offers another tip to try.
